Nicole Frambach has spent 16 years in North Carolina real estate. She started in commercial brokerage before moving into for-sale residential land acquisition, and today she is VP of Acquisitions at Brightshore Capital, where she sources and develops master-planned communities across the Southeast.

Nicole has been active in ULI throughout her career. She currently chairs the ULI Charlotte Women's Leadership Initiative and serves on the Programs Committee, the local Advisory Board and ULI's Residential Neighborhood Development Council.

Outside of work, she and her family spend their time traveling, being active in the South Academy of International Language community, and tending their chickens.
