About ULI Atlanta

A District Council of the Urban Land Institute

With over 1,000 members throughout the Metropolitan Atlanta area, ULI Atlanta is one of the largest District Councils of the Urban Land Institute (ULI). We bring together leaders from across the fields of real estate and land use policy to exchange best practices and serve community needs. We share knowledge through education, applied research, publishing, and electronic media.

ULI Mission: The mission of the Urban Land Institute is to provide leadership in the responsible use of land and in creating and sustaining thriving communities worldwide.

About the Technical Assistance Panels (TAPs)

Since 1947, the Urban Land Institute has harnessed the technical expertise of its members to help communities solve difficult land use, development, and redevelopment challenges. ULI Atlanta brought this same model of technical assistance to the Metropolitan Atlanta area. Local ULI members volunteer their time to serve on panels. In return, they are provided with a unique opportunity to share their skills and experience to improve their community.

Through Technical Assistance Panels (TAPs), ULI Atlanta is able to enhance community leadership, clarify community needs and assets, and advance land use policies that expand economic opportunity and maximize market potential.

The City of Morrow recently completed an LCI Study for the Southlake Mall and its surrounding area. The Study made recommendation for creating a town center by redeveloping the out-parcel area between the Southlake Mall and Jonesboro road and retrofitting the Southlake Parkway into a 'main street'. For the longer term, the Plan recommends redeveloping the Southlake Festival Plaza into a Transit Orient Development (TOD) and mixed-use district. The intent is to transition this area from heavily retail oriented district to a mixed-use district that addresses the changing demographics and regional retail competition as well as captures the emerging opportunities.

The client's primary objective was to determine the mechanisms to implement the LCI Study recommendation, to focus on the catalytic elements and specific redevelopment parcel/s and location/s to begin the implementation. The City of Morrow also sought to determine the programmatic elements of the first phase of implementation and the best location for a true catalyst in order for the rest of the vision to be realized. Part of the objective was to ensure that the projects and priorities are feasible in the market. Finally, the client wanted to use recommendations from the TAP to help develop a development package(s) that identify the site(s), program, expected goals, financing/ funding mechanisms, and other incentives to attract the development community.

Primary Panel Recommendations:

Over the course of the day, the ULI panel had significant discussions about the opportunities and recommended priorities in the City of Morrow. Given the economic environment and the panel's perspective on development opportunities in the near term, the recommendations are structured around what the experts believe to be feasible and most likely to attract and/or catalyze investment in the near term. The discussions and priorities are detailed in the following presentation and summarized below.

Upfront: Define a cohesive vision for success in the City of Morrow and make strategic decisions about how to best use the City's constrained resources.

Near term: Focus on aspects of the strategy that are realistic in the near term and create a "heart" for the Morrow community. Make those sites "development ready" for when the market is there.

Long term: Focus on levers that can improve timing and opportunities for turnaround. Continue with parallel, long-term strategy of redevelopment of mall and the area around mall, recognizing that it will take a unique set of circumstances and a long-term phased approach to actualize.

The panelists' key recommended priorities are as follows:

1. Continue to Aggressively Build Relationships and Partnerships
 - Continue to build the human capital relationships necessary to implement a redevelopment plan. Focus, in particular, on developing a strong relationship with Clayton State University (CSU).
 - Institute a "Leadership Morrow" type consortium that works to advance the economic development potential within Morrow.
 - Recognize the University as an important resource and use it to the benefit of the city.
 - Lay the groundwork for a Community Improvement District (CID) with community involvement and University buy-in. Continue to build relationships with the commercial property owners and the University.

- Engage Clayton State and the Archives in an economic development plan and look at the mall as a united economic development strategy. This may include looking at it as a new venue.
2. Focus on Bike/ Pedestrian/ Greenway Improvements as Key Quality of Life Assets and Means to Improve Commercial Assets and Thereby Improve the Fiscal Health of City
 - Determine the gaps in the bike/pedestrian trail then determine what has to be done physically to complete the system.
 - Connect all of your natural and community assets: CSU, Community Center with residential and town green, parks and trails, Reynolds Nature Preserve and highlight that in marketing.
 - Improve streetscape, trail, bike, and pedestrian connections to showcase confidence and pride in the community.
 - Focus on doing the things that will support the commercial/ retail base of the city – for the financial wellbeing of the city. Include streetscape guidelines, redevelopment incentives, etc.
 3. Structure Redevelopment Strategy as Parallel Efforts with Mall Area and Neighborhood/ CSU Area
 - Establish the vision – what are the goals and what does the city want to be?
 - Structure the action plan as parallel efforts for (1) the mall and surroundings as detailed in the LCI and (2) for locals.
 - Focus on mixed-use node at Morrow Road for place making. This should be your town center and is the most realistic location for new residential development.
 - Complete a small area plan for a mixed-use node at city hall and along Highway 54 that articulates the character, block layout, and land use mix that could improve and enhance this key opportunity.
 - Initiate a CID or similar structure around mall to work on branding, positioning, and long term sustainability.
 4. Implementation and Economic Development Strategies
 - Focus on small pilot, civic programs or projects for early wins and ways to get community buy-in.
 - Identify your lead economic development entity and engage and train its board members so as to further build community leadership capacity.
 - Create one or more Urban Redevelopment Plans which focus on the LCI and the "town center" (described above) and other qualifying areas to further incentivize and drive the pace of redevelopment.
 5. Focus on Marketing and Investments that Will Help the Overall Market Turnaround
 - Establish a branding and re-visioning program for the city.
 - Market the 'no residential property tax' as a hook to attract residential and reinvestment and as a tool for residential development in the future; but, the city should limit this abatement incentive to specific period of time (e.g., 5 - 10 years) so as to accelerate the pace of investment.
 - Look at charter school options for address education issues and misperceptions.

What to do first...

The panel had some specific advice on what they would first if they were charged with redevelopment. Some of this speaks to where the priorities should lie and some to how to go about achieving the goals to improve chances for success.

1. Conduct a candid assessment of the existing public assets and determine which are performing, which are under-performing, which are non-performing, and how can you can make them better performing. There may be opportunities with performing assets and the parking deck.
2. Align zoning and regulatory tools with the vision articulated in the LCI and outcomes identified by this TAP.
3. Create, with the Downtown Development Authority, a retention and recruitment package so that time and effort is well-focused on key parcels and with a clear vision.
4. Get together with the property owners to determine what viable options would provide an economic return on investment. Then, identify what is needed to make development happen – financial incentives, zoning exceptions, partnerships, etc.
5. Focus on/ prioritize efforts that create synergy with residents and CSU and having a sense of place such as completing the bike/ pedestrian path.
6. Make sure the website and other communications are done well and reach the broadest possible audience.
7. Begin to identify a project for implementation of streetscape, signage, bike/pedestrian, and greenway.
8. Develop a regional economic development strategy with Southlake Mall, the University, Hartsfield-Jackson International Airport, and Georgia State Tourism. Explore how the mall area could become more of a tourists destination verses a changed employment center.
9. Continue to be a voice and champion on transit station advocacy.

Parting thoughts and general advice...

After putting together the “to do” list of everything imaginable, pick three things to work on and do not do anything else until those three have been accomplished. (HINT: start with three small things)

Continue to actively engage all stakeholders. This can be done through programming and branding that will better engage the property owners and residents/ renters; use online “quality of life surveys,” put flyers in schools and the water bill, put a kiosk at the mall – all to solicit better input from those who live and work in Morrow.

Focus on the things that you can control: (1) public realm (2) create framework for redevelopment, don’t be a developer, and (3) foster partnerships to champion the new vision for the city.

The City is doing a tremendous job getting past the “previous hurdles” that exist with regard to perception, changing demographics, and an uncertain economy. With such drive and determination, the City will certainly succeed.

The City has a great team in place to undertake these efforts. Do not lose sight of the long term vision because you have the right people in place to make this happen over the long term.
