

Paul Shadle

Partner

DLA Piper LLP (US)

Paul Shadle is a partner in DLA Piper's Development, Land Use and Government Affairs practice group. He concentrates his practice in the areas of general real estate development transactions, real estate finance, corporate real estate services, land use and zoning, public-private finance, historic/landmark preservation, incentives for development and facilities location, and related government affairs.

Mr. Shadle represents owners, tenants, developers, investors, lenders, retailers and a variety of entrepreneurial and institutional clients in complex real estate, private and public financing, annexation, zoning and government-related matters for corporate, office, industrial, retail, residential and mixed use projects. Prior to practicing law, Mr. Shadle worked on a variety of urban economic development and planning matters as a land use planning and transportation analyst for EG&G Dynatrend and the U.S. Department of Transportation, and as a staff member for Senator Paul Simon (D-IL) and Congressman Patrick Williams (D-MT). He is a graduate of Kenwood High School in Chicago's Hyde Park, Carleton College (B.A. in History, 1986), the Harvard Kennedy School of Government (M.P.P., 1991) and the University of Chicago Law School (J.D., 1996).