

Rhonda McFarland

*Executive Director, Quad Communities
Development Corporation*

Rhonda McFarland, Executive Director of Quad Communities Development Corporation, has dedicated nearly 30 years of her professional career in the field of economic development. As a financial industry professional, she served as a VP of lending specializing in financing affordable housing and commercial real estate through the Midwest. Also, serving as the VP of Lending with a Chicago based Community Development Financial Institution (CDFI) and as an independent consultant, she provided advisory, financing, interim leadership, and project management services to a diverse client base. Having served on many not for profit boards, advisory committees, and as a professional volunteer, she is considered one of Chicago's most dedicated and effective community focused and based professional in Chicago. Rhonda is a proud graduate of Texas Southern University in Houston, TX, an HBCU institution.