

ALEX ANTOLINO

Vice President, Mixed-Use Development | Brookfield Properties

Alex Antolino is a Vice President with Brookfield Properties Development. Mr. Antolino is responsible for mixed-use development opportunities in Chicago and various other markets in the Eastern United States. He recently completed the 635,000 square foot conversion of the historic Marshall Field's department store into premier office space in downtown Chicago. Prior to joining Brookfield Properties, Mr. Antolino spent eight years at DDR Corp. (now SITE Centers), a publicly traded REIT that owned, developed and managed retail shopping centers throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. During his career, Mr. Antolino has overseen over $800M of retail and mixed-use development projects.

Mr. Antolino is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin – Madison with a double major in Real Estate and Finance. Mr. Antolino is an active member of the Urban Land Institute (ULI) and the Wisconsin Real Estate Alumni Association (WREAA), where he served on the Board of Directors from 2014-2016.