

Karen Halstead

Senior Economic Development Specialist, ComEd

Karen Halsted works on Economic Development for ComEd, the largest electric utility in Illinois and the primary electric provider for Chicagoland for more than 100 years. Throughout her career, Karen has worked across the utility and telecommunications value chain, from equipment suppliers to engineering and construction firms to utility service providers. Karen understands what it takes to build out the physical network of transmission lines, transformers, switches and everything else needed to power homes and businesses across Illinois.
