Submission Category

Please review the categories and choose the one that best fits your project.

Applications for these awards are reviewed by a jury of experienced ULI members from across the US, representing multiple disciplines within real estate. The categories and their criteria are as listed below:

- Housing and Communities: Celebrating Excellence in Residential Development and Community Building
Projects with exemplary leadership in the planning, design, financing, or construction of housing that promotes healthy, equitable, and thriving communities.
- Real Estate Finance and Investment: Recognizing Leadership in Capital Markets and Investment Strategies
Projects, transactions, or investment initiatives which advanced the efficient connection of capital to real estate, promoting land use innovation and economic value creation.
- Sustainability and Economic Impact: Honoring Projects that Integrate Environmental, Social, and Governance Excellence
Projects whose sustainability principles were embedded in the creation, financing, design, or management of the built environment.
- Innovation in Development Practice: Showcasing Breakthrough Approaches in Real Estate Development
Case studies or projects that illustrate new ideas, technologies, or methodologies that advanced real estate development.
- Shaping Successful Cities and Regions Award: Advancing Strategic Growth, Policy, and Infrastructure Initiatives
Projects that contributed to shaping dynamic, resilient, and inclusive cities or regions through planning, policy, or major development initiatives.
- The Next Big Idea: Innovative Ideas that can positively impact the region's quality of the built environment
Submissions do not have to be completed projects! We seek innovative developments that can positively impact the way in which planning and development are conducted, construction affordability, financing or other aspects of development. What would make our region more resilient? More enjoyable?
