

Class of 2022 applications due: March 1, 2022

Our mission is to cultivate innovators in the built environment

ULI Northwest announces its sixth program year of this nationally-recognized leadership development program. More than 100 land use and real estate professionals have benefited from this program and are now part of the global alumni network.

CFL participants will engage with industry experts, local executives, and national thought leaders on the region's most pressing issues.

The course will feature inclusive leadership training facilitated by executive coaches and consultants as well as thought leaders from the real estate and land use industry.

Join the 2022 cohort to make your mark on our built environment.

Why participate?

- Expand your leadership skills and personal network
- Establish new perspectives on land use, development, and the challenges and opportunities facing our region
- Engage with a diverse group of industry leaders

Who participates?

- Current and future executives, elected and appointed public officials, and community leaders.
- Those with minimum seven (7) years of experience working in real estate, land use, public policy, advocacy, or community planning.
- Those recognized by their peers as charting new paths and connecting diverse stakeholders.
