Racial Urban Constructs + Advancing Equity in Cities

1:45pm - 2:45pm

This panel will discuss the history of racism in urban development and how this has led to the social and institutional systems the industry operates within today. We will discuss how the development community is engaging in inclusive design and development practices and explore ways to move boldly towards systemic change to address racial inequalities in the real estate industry.

Transformation Towards Equitable + Healthy Communities:

Portland Broadway Corridor

3:00pm - 4:00pm

Portland has the unprecedented opportunity to reshape it's downtown with the 35 acre Broadway Corridor project. Equally unprecedented is the Community Benefits Agreement (CBA) that seeks to ensure the project benefits Black, Indigenous, People of Color and working class communities with good jobs and affordable housing opportunities. Hear about how this CBA agreement was put in place and what's next for this critical urban development project from Prosper Portland and the Healthy Communities Coalition.

6 Months Later: Taking Stock of the Covid Shock

4:30pm - 5:30pm

With half a year's worth of perspective under our belts, including many data points that are quite literally "off the charts", where does the economy of Canada, BC, and Metro Vancouver stand in this Great Suppression? What are the biggest challenges currently facing our regional economy and housing market, and what has pleasantly surprised us?
