

Patrick CooleyLS3P

Patrick brings strategic insight and a collaborative approach to workplace planning and architectural programming. He translates operational goals into spatial solutions that enhance employee experience, increase efficiency, and foster long-term adaptability. His process begins with understanding the client's needs and culture, shaping concepts that align performance with the brand identity.

Known for his engaging presentations, Patrick fosters stakeholder collaboration and drives meaningful input. His strengths lie in space planning, programming, and visioning—always with a focus on how environments influence behavior and meet business goals. Before joining LS3P, he led hospitality renovations, sports venue upgrades, and large-scale commercial transformations, contributing across all project phases from strategy to construction.
