

Shaun Tooley
LandDesign

Shaun Tooley, PLA, is a Partner and landscape architect at LandDesign who is driven to form meaningful relationships with each client he works with. His thorough understanding and ability to navigate complex design scenarios influences his design approach—balancing program with natural context. His expertise has directed most of his portfolio within the private sector, while also participating and advocating for community benefit such as open space systems and investment in high quality public realm. He especially enjoys leading projects through the entitlement phases, working with the design and development team to effectively integrate project objectives with creative solutions that help ensure overall success.
