

Daniel Malino is President of Levine Properties, a Charlotte-based commercial real estate development firm with over 40 years of history. He assumed this role in October 2024 overseeing the company's day-to-day operations, including strategic planning, development, leasing and asset management. Levine Properties owns and manages a diverse portfolio of real estate, and is focused on the development of consequential, community-focused projects that will contribute meaningfully to Charlotte's growth.

A Greensboro, N.C., native, Malino earned his undergraduate degree from Tufts University and a J.D. from Duke University School of Law. He brings extensive experience from his time as a principal at Atlanta-based QR Capital, a real estate investment and operating firm focused on multifamily and student housing acquisitions, development and management. Malino is experienced in structuring joint ventures, public-private partnerships and has collaborated closely with municipal leaders, economic development agencies and community stakeholders to align public priorities with private investment.

Levine Properties' current projects include the revitalization of Providence Square in South Charlotte and the re-development of the approximately 11 acres at the corner of Providence and Fairview roads.
