The Future of Communities: The Realities of Master Planned Development

Thursday, June 25th | 3:30 PM - 6 PM | Denver

The Discovery Series Committee (DISCO) is designed to seek emerging trends and innovative developments across Colorado.

This future in communities event is bringing together developer and architect teams behind three major master planned developments shaping the future of Colorado, including Auraria Campus, Fitzsimons Innovation Community, and Sun Valley. This conversation will explore how these large scale projects move from vision to implementation, highlighting the collaboration between public and private partners, the role of funding and municipal coordination, and the challenges that come with phasing and delivery. Attendees will gain one on one face time and insight into what differentiates each project, how these plans connect across Denver's evolving landscape, and what it truly takes to bring transformative community developments to life.
