

How to Get Involved with ULI St. Louis

Now more than ever.
Find it at ULI.

The Urban Land Institute (ULI) is a global, member-driven organization dedicated to responsible land use and sustainable communities. ULI St. Louis, the local district council, connects professionals across real estate and development sectors through networking and educational programs. Getting involved with ULI St. Louis enhances your professional growth and strengthens your impact on the local community.

JOIN A COMMITTEE

Actively participating in ULI St. Louis committees allows you to shape discussions on key real estate topics at both local and national levels. Committee members tackle local challenges through Technical Assistance Panels (TAPs) and share expertise as speakers, panelists, or small-group facilitators. ULI St. Louis prioritizes elevating underrepresented voices and offers dedicated programming for Young Leaders, Women, and Developers of Color. Committees provide leadership and collaboration opportunities while shaping critical conversations that influence the community.

ATTEND EVENTS

ULI St. Louis hosts dynamic events featuring top industry leaders, exclusive tours, panel discussions, and hands-on workshops. Topics include pressing real estate issues such as attainable housing, downtown revitalization, and emerging market trends. Whether attending large events or intimate discussions, you can stay ahead of industry shifts and expand your professional network. Check out upcoming events on our events page.

VOLUNTEER FOR URBANPLAN

UrbanPlan is an immersive, classroom-based program that teaches participants about the economic and social forces shaping real estate development. ULI St. Louis offers members the opportunity to volunteer in this program, working directly with students and community members to facilitate learning and introduce potential career paths. Volunteers must complete a one-time training session and are encouraged to participate in at least two classroom sessions per year. To get involved, email Beth Letscher at beth.letscher@uli.org.

EXPLORE LEADERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES

ULI offers leadership roles at both local and national levels. Local committees provide opportunities to lead discussions, solve challenges, and build relationships within the St. Louis market and beyond. Nationally, members can engage with ULI's broader initiatives, contributing expertise and shaping industry direction. Learn more about ULI St. Louis leadership opportunities at stlouis.uli.org

How to Get Involved with ULI St. Louis

Now more than ever. Find it at ULI.

TAKE A COURSE

ULI St. Louis offers educational programs designed to advance your career:

- Real Estate Diversity Initiative (REDI): A 14-module course for women and developers of color seeking to grow in real estate.
- Fundamentals of Economic Development: A seven-week program led by local economic development experts. Participants who complete at least five sessions earn a Chancellor's Certificate in Economic Development from UMSL.

BECOME A MEMBER

ULI members gain access to exclusive research, best practices, events, and professional connections worldwide. To join, visit the ULI membership page or contact the Membership Department at 1-800-321-5011.

CONTACT ULI ST. LOUIS

For personalized assistance or inquiries about programs and opportunities, contact ULI St. Louis:

- Phone: 314-833-9977
- Email: stlouis@uli.org

By engaging with ULI St. Louis, you can play a key role in shaping responsible development in the region while advancing your career in land use and real estate.

