

Terence Seah
Head of Hong Kong, Singapore and Shenzhen, Benoy

Based in Hong Kong, Terence works with 26 Directors globally to establish a broader, more internationally focused offering to include research, landscape and environmental graphics. Singapore will continue to focus on mixed-use and experiential design for South-East Asia, building on the success of critical projects such as Jewel. Shenzhen will become a fully operational Greater Bay design studio from February and will put us at the heart of a community of clients in southern China.

Terence has led the Benoy Singapore studio since 2014, overseeing the successful delivery of iconic projects such as Changi Terminal 4 and Jewel Changi, as well as numerous world-class destinations across Greater China, Asia Pacific and EMEA throughout my 20 year career. Having studied and practiced in Singapore, China and the UK, Terence has had exposure to a diverse portfolio across Asia, Australia, the Middle East and the UK. He speaks English, Mandarin and Cantonese. A UK qualified architect and designer at heart, Terence's work includes Jewel Changi Airport, Singapore; Subang Jaya City Centre, Malaysia; Raffles City, Shenzhen, China and David Jones, Sydney, Australia.
