

Anthony Liu

Anthony Liu is the Head of Technology and Innovation, Asia for Goodman - a global industrial property group. He leads technology strategy and related partnerships, as well as founding and leading Goodman China's tech venture program, focused primarily on warehouse automation, smart buildings, sustainability, and construction technology. Previously he founded and led New Ventures, Swire Properties' innovation and corporate venture team. He also co-founded UrbanLab, China's first proptech corporate accelerator, and advises a variety of venture capital firms, tech accelerator programs, and tech startups. His background is rooted in office/retail leasing and management, residential sales and product development, and site acquisition/valuation in Hong Kong and Mainland China.