

Alex Heath, is a City Planner with over a decade of planning experience involving policy writing, project planning, community outreach, and the development of zoning standards. He is currently a project manager overseeing the creation of new zoning districts for the city's community plans, as well as developing strategies and content for the New Zoning Code. Prior to joining the City of Los Angeles, Alex worked as a planner for the Southern California cities of Inglewood and Santa Ana, and worked for 4 years in London with roles including developing community outreach strategies for large scale development projects and later on housing estate regeneration strategy for a nonprofit housing agency. Alex received his master's degree from the London School of Economics and his Bachelor's degree from Cal Poly Pomona.