

Jacqui Swartz
Senior Transportation
Planner
City of Santa Monica

Jacqui Swartz is a Senior Transportation Planner with the City of Santa Monica Department of Transportation. As a Project Manager on the Capital Projects Team, her work entails implementing the City's Bicycle Action Plan, Vision Zero safety projects, Pedestrian Plans, Safe Routes to School projects, and special projects such as Main St Al Fresco, Open Main Street, and the City's Parklet Program. Prior to joining the City of Santa Monica, Jacqui worked for the City of Los Angeles Department of Transportation where she managed Vision Zero projects, Great Streets projects, transportation studies, and lead major data analysis and visualization projects. Jacqui also spent several years in consulting, working for Fehr & Peers and URS. Her projects range from corridor planning, bicycle and pedestrian master plans, traffic calming studies, land use analysis, suitability analysis, and geospatial data analysis. She has a B.S. in Geography from the University of Washington.
