

Abbey Ehman

Vice President, Head of ESG
Lincoln Property Company

At LPC West, Abbey Ehman is responsible for development management and sustainability practices throughout the Greater Los Angeles region. Her background includes architecture, development, and construction management, with a primary focus on efficient project delivery and the cost-effective integration of sustainability measures. Abbey spearheads strategy and initiatives within LPC West's ESG Leadership Task Force; and she is championing the firm's corporate social responsibility and sustainability efforts.

Throughout her career, Abbey has managed the design and construction of high-profile projects covering all asset types throughout Southern California. Some of her most notable projects include the successful delivery of a $30-million retail development in Downtown Los Angeles, and the master planning and entitlements of a 250-acre, mixed-use, healthy living community in Bakersfield. Her work includes managing design teams, project costs, and schedule restraints to ensure all projects are delivered on time and within budget.

Prior to joining LPC West, Abbey led Trammell Crow Company's Sustainability Task Force to implement platform-wide measurement and verification tools. She previously worked with the U.S. Green Building Council to launch the LEED® Pilot Program.
