

Matthew Hines is a Director in Hines' Strategic Projects Office. He was formerly part of Hines' US West Region, where his primary focus was new development and acquisitions business. Matthew joined Hines in 2019 and served as project manager for West Edge, a sustainable live, work, play mixed-use destination in West Los Angeles. As project manager, he oversaw West Edge's budget, schedule, design, consultants, marketing, leasing, and overall project delivery. Prior to joining Hines, Matthew served as engagement manager at Medallia, where he managed the business relationships of top clients including Four Seasons, Chase, and Toyota, and oversaw a team of software development analysts. Matthew also worked at music management company Rebel One, developing multi-platform digital marketing campaigns for superstar pop recording artists including Rihanna and Becky G. Matthew graduated from Vanderbilt University with a BA in European History and Anthropology and received his MBA with a concentration in Real Estate from UC Berkeley's Haskins School of Business.